

Undergraduate Colloquium in Mathematics

Wednesday, November 15th, 3:30 PM – 4:30 PM
STV 308

Talk title: On the PhD program in applied statistics at the University of Alabama

Speaker: Volodymyr Melnykov, the coordinator of the PhD program in Applied Statistics at the University of Alabama.

Abstract: The PhD program in applied statistics at the University of Alabama is overseen by the Department of Information Systems, Statistics, and Management Science. In my talk, I will provide the outline of the program, including the expectations, faculty research interests, and aspects of being a part of a business school. I will provide examples of the placement of our recent students and describe the application process in detail.